Choice Poetry.

PASS UNDER THE ROD.

BY MRS. DANA.

I saw the young bride, in her beauty and pride,
Bedecked in her snowy array,
And the bright flush of joy mantled high on her cheek,
And the future looked blooming and gay,
And with woman's devotion she laid her fond heart
At the shrine of idolatrous love,
And she anchored her hopes to this perishing earth
By the chains which her tenderness wove.
But I saw when those heart-strings were bleeding and torn,
And the chain had been severed in two,
She had changed her white robes for the sable of grief,
And her bloom for the paleness of woe;
But the Healer was there—pouring balm on her heart,
And wiping the tears from her eyes,
He strengthened the chain He had broken in twain,
And fastened it firm to the skies.
There had whispered a voice, 'twas the voice of her God,
"I love thee! I love thee—pass under the rod."

I saw a young mother in tenderness bend
O'er the couch of her slumbering boy,
And she kissed the soft lips as they murmured her name
While the dreamer lay smiling in joy,
O sweet as the rosebud encircled with dew
When its fragrance is flung on the air,
So fresh and so bright to that mother he seemed
As he lay in his innocence there.
But I saw when she gazed on the same lovely form,
Pale as marble, and silent—and cold;
But paler and colder her beautiful boy,
And the tale of her sorrow was told;
But the Healer was there who had stricken her heart,
And taken her treasure away,
To allure her to heaven He placed it on high,
And the mourner will sweetly obey.
There had whispered a voice, 'twas the voice of her God,
"I love thee—I love thee—pass under the rod."

I saw a father and mother who leaned
On the arms of a dear, gifted son,
And the star in the future grew bright to their gaze
As he saw the proud place he had won.
And the fast coming evening of life promised fair,
And its pathway grew smooth to their feet,
And the starlight of love glimmered bright at the end,
And the whispers of fancy grew sweet.
And I saw them again bending low o'er the grave,
Where their hearts dearest hopes had been laid,
And the star had gone down in the darkness of night,
And the joy from their bosom had fled;
But the Healer was there, and his arms were around,
And He led them with tenderest care,
And He showed them a star in the bright upper world,
'Twas their star shining brilliantly there.
They each heard a voice—'twas the voice of their God,
"I love thee—I love thee—pass under the rod."

Miscellaneous.

GENERAL HANCOCK.

THE prudence and patriotism with which General Hancock is administering the affairs of his department attest the wisdom of President Johnson in displacing his predecessor. General Grant's intemperate remonstrance was more creditable to the fidelity of his friendship than to the soundness of his judgment. While Sheridan was in command the department was never quiet. That meddlesome officer resembled the unfortunate people who never have good neighbors. He found himself under a constant necessity of doing strong acts; and the protests against his removal assumed that the department was so full of turbulent, mutinous spirits that only his vigorous hand could hold them in subjection. But when he left, the rebellious spirits seemed to depart with him, as the peace of a neighbor-hood is restored when the unfortunate family that always had bad neighbors moves away. General Sheridan's removal, which it was asserted, before it took place, would make him the next President, is much more likely to confer that honor upon his successor, if General Hancock continues to evince the consummate civil prudence he has thus far exhibited. It bids fair to place him among the small number from whom a Democratic candidate will be selected, while Sheridan's supposed claims have gone into a total eclipse.

For our part, we hope that a statesman of large civil experience may be run by both parties. We are not likely to need military abilities; or if we should the Presidential mansion is not a fit place for the headquarters of a fighting army. Great measures of civil policy and administrative reform should stand in the fore, round under the next President. There is no fitness in choosing a mere military man to discharge duties requiring great civil experience. But if the Republicans attempt to sway the canvass by the eclat of a military name it may be expedient to neutralize the effort by putting a popular military name into the other scale. If this necessity should be forced upon us, an accidental advantage may result from the Republican reconstruction scheme by affording a field to test the civil capacity of one of our most admired and meritorious soldiers.

The standing electioneering calumny of the Republicans, that every man who disapproves of their negro policy is a rebel at heart, recoils against its authors when levelled at so bright a reputation as General Hancock's. For loyalty, gallantry, zeal, activity, and the solid value of his services, there was no officer in the Union army who, with equal opportunities, left so shining a record. If he had even had a separate command, he might have acted a more prominent, but he could not easily have acted a more brilliant part. Separate commands were lavished on officers of a different school of politics. The Republican Banks had a separate command both in the Valley and in Louisiana, and he acquired everything but honor in both. The renegade Democrat, Butler, had separate commands, and made himself a butt of derision. Pope had a separate command, and his incompetency was demonstrated by the second Bull Run. Burnside had a separate command, and the result was his useless slaughter of our troops at Fredericksburg. Hooker had a separate command, and the result was his disgraceful defeat at Chancellorsville. The Conservative Meade was promoted to a separate command by accident and a sudden necessity. He won the great victory of Gettysburg and was again subordinated. Democratic officers who were not servile enough to renounce or dissemble their principles, had no fair chance in the army. The crushing of General M'Clellan by political malice was a warning which disclosed to ambitious army officers a fatal rock in the channel of promotion.

Although General Hancock never had a separate command while the war lasted, there were but few directors of armies who blazed into such distinction as this brilliant subordinate. The Army of the Potomac, in which he served, always ranked as the first of our armies, and Hancock as one of its brightest ornaments. His purity of character, his patriotic ardor, his gallantry, alacrity, vigor, abilities, modesty, and good fortune, acquired for him a reputation which was never sullied by one breath of suspicion or one word of censure. Whenever it is said that Conservative politics are inconsistent with vigorous, devoted loyalty, it is a sufficient reply to point to General Hancock, the esteemed and gallant representative of hundreds of Democratic officers, and hundreds of thousands of Democratic soldiers. The surviving soldiers of the Army of the Potomac feel for him a warmth of admiring regard which the colder character of General Grant never kindled; and the people share the feeling.

General Hancock has thus far proved himself as judicious in peace as he was brave and brilliant in war. Under his administration, there have been no New Orleans riots; no insubordination in civil officers to give him trouble; no disaffection to his person, though he fills a most unwelcome office. He resorts to no strong measures because the considerate equity of his administration disarms opposition. The turbulent and rebellious population which it was said that no hand less formidable than Sheridan's could control, and which he hardly succeeded in controlling by his constant acts of rigor and summary dismissals, is so spontaneously orderly and quiet under Hancock, that, to all appearance, he could govern as effectually without an army as with. This contrast, so creditable to Hancock, illustrates, the superiority of the Democratic method of dealing with the South. If General Hancock, when set to execute an odious law, can govern with so little friction how easily might loyalty be maintained in the South if the policy of the government as well as its officers were conciliatory!

To illustrate the temper of General Hancock's administration, and his steadfast fealty to law, we copy the following statement from the New Orleans Picayune:

On Saturday night a father and son, known respectively in this community by the names of Simon M. Frank Walleche and Edmund F. Walleche, who for several months past have been proprietors of the sash and planing mills, called the Mariposa Mills, on St. Joseph street, were arrested by the police under a warrant issued by the Governor of the State of New-York, they being indicted in the City of New-York, it is alleged, with obtaining goods from merchants there, about eighteen months ago, to the amount of $100,000, by false pretences.

Saturday night Judge Cotton, counsel for the accused, sued out, before Judge Theard, a writ of habeas corpus, returnable this morning at 10 o'clock. It appears, however, that General Hancock learned late last evening of the simple fact of the issuance of the writ by a court of competent jurisdiction, and of the probability, under peculiar attendant circumstances, that the writ was not to be respected. He at once went in person to the office of Chief of Police, about 6.30 o'clock, and told Major Williamson that he had learned that a writ of habeas corpus had been issued, and that owing to some illegality it was probable that it would not be obeyed. "I will hold you responsible in this matter. Those prisoners must be produced. I believe you will produce them, but I will myself take the necessary precaution that they be produced. I have issued an order that the writ of habeas corpus is to be observed and it shall be. I am here to protect the dignity of government, and the rights of the people as to life, liberty, and property must be preserved. So long as I am a power here, the law shall be respected. I know nothing, Mr. Chief of Police, about this case; do not know what these men are charged with; but it is sufficient for me to know, and you to know, that a writ of habeas corpus has been issued, and that writ shall be respected. I will sink the boat in the middle of the river with cannon that takes these men on board, and intercept any train of cars that carries them. If the law is not observed, who and what is safe? I may be taken away, you may be, any of us may be. Justice must be upheld. I hold you, therefore, Mr. Chief of Police, responsible for the delivery of these men before Judge Theard, in obedience to that writ."

The General then took his departure, and we felt as though we had listened truly to the defender of law and dignity of government. We don't remember of ever having witnessed a more impressive scene.

The proceedings in this case of requisition may be all regular and the grounds of the arrest sufficient. These are points on which General Hancock need have no opinion. But it is important that citizens of his district should feel that they cannot be dragged from their homes on criminal charges and taken to a distant State to be tried, without good reasons. All that the habeas corpus will accomplish is to secure an examination of the grounds of arrest before an upright judge. If the arrest is warranted by the facts and papers, he will restore the prisoners to custody. But the firmness with which General Hancock sustains the writ, assures every innocent man in his district that innocence will insure protection at the hands of the local courts. What General Hancock establishes is a government of law, not of arbitrary force.—N. Y. World.

AN ASTONISHED INDIAN.—A band of Indians made a sudden attack upon a detachment of soldiers in the mountains. The soldiers had a loaded mountain howitzer mounted on a mule. Not having time to take it off and put it in position, they backed up the mule and let drive at the Indians. The load was so heavy that mule and all went tumbling down the hill toward the savages, who, not understanding that kind of warfare, fled like deer. Afterwards one of them was captured, and when asked why he ran so, replied: "Me big Injun not afraid of little guns or big guns; but when white man load up and fire a whole jackass at Injun, me don't know what to do."

GEN. HANCOCK.

THE President has sent the following message to Congress:

Gentlemen of the Senate and of the House of Representatives:

An official copy of the order issued by Major-Gen. Winfield S. Hancock, Commander of the Fifth Military District, dated Headquarters in New-Orleans, on the 29th day of November, has reached me through the regular channels of the War Department, and I herewith communicate it to Congress for such action as may seem to be proper in view of all the circumstances. It will be perceived that Gen. Hancock announces that he will make the law the rule of his conduct; that he will uphold the courts and other civil authorities in the performance of their proper duties, and that he will use his military power only to preserve the peace and enforce the law. He declares very implicitly that the sacred right of the trial by jury and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be crushed out nor trodden under foot. He goes further, and in one comprehensive sentence asserts that the principles of American liberty are still the inheritance of this people, and ever should be. When a great soldier, with unrestricted power in his hands to oppress his fellow-men, voluntarily foregoes the chance of gratifying his selfish ambition, and devotes himself to the duty of building up the liberties and strengthening the laws of his country, he presents an example of the highest public virtue that human nature is capable of practicing. The strongest claim of Washington to be "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen," is founded on the great fact that in all his illustrious career he scrupulously abstained from violating the legal and constitutional rights of his fellow-citizens. When he surrendered his commission to Congress, the President of that body spoke his highest praise in saying that he had "always regarded the rights of the civil authorities through all dangers and disasters." Wherever power above the law courted his acceptance, he calmly put temptation aside. By such magnanimous acts of forbearance he won the universal admiration of mankind, and left a name which has no rival in the history of the world. I am far from saying that Gen. Hancock is the only officer of the American army who is influenced by the example of Washington. Doubtless thousands of them are faithfully devoted to the principles for which the men of the Revolution laid down their lives. But the distinguished honor belongs to him of being the first officer in high command south of the Potomac since the close of the civil war who has given utterance to these noble sentiments in the form of a military order.

I respectfully suggest to Congress that some public recognition of Gen. Hancock's patriotic conduct is due, if not to him, to the friends of law and justice throughout the country. Of such an act as his at such a time it is but fitting that the dignity should be vindicated, and the virtue proclaimed, so that its value as an example may not be lost to the nation.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

A GOOD CUSTOMER.

A FEW days since, a dignified person with the bearing and general appearance of a country merchant, stepped into a wholesale store in the city of Norwich Conn., and in a bland tone and insinuating manner, inquired of the proprietor, if he sold gin by the barrel, at what price and if it was a good article. He would like to see a sample.

Proprietor drew a large sized tumbler full. Country Merchant tasted.

"Ah!" said he, as he smacked his lips with just a suspicion of delight, "that's good gin. What can you let me have a barrel of that for?"

Proprietor named the price.

"Remarkably good gin," said he, taking another sip. "That reminds me of some gin I bought in 1848," and he went on with a long story about that particular gin, stopping occasionally to try the sample until it was all gone but a swallow. The story finished, he tossed off the balance of it, and remarking that he liked the gin, and would come in and leave his order after making a few purchases elsewhere, left the store.

An hour afterward, while the proprietor was waiting on some customers, the gin buyer returned, and this time tackled one of the clerks with:

"I have got to buy some gin to day and if you have a first rate article I should like to see a sample of it."

Another large sized tumbler full was forthcoming, and the old fellow tasted of it. Then he turned it around, held it up to the light and tasted again. Then he commented on the gin, and indulged in reflections upon how much more gin cost now than in 1848. He kept on talking and he kept on drinking, and the clerk kept on waiting to consummate the trade.

He was such a dignified man and was so evidently a good judge of, as well as a large dealer in gin, that the clerk was not disposed to hurry him. But as he was taking down the last swallow, the proprietor came around.

"Look here, sir: do you want to buy any gin?"

The old fellow's dignity melted in an instant. Putting his hands in his overcoat, he drew out a pint bottle, and in the meekest and mildest voice imaginable.

"Yes a half a pint in this bottle."

A FEMALE SOMNAMBULIST.

She Rose in her Sleep and Went to Bed with Her Lover—Early Morning Wedding in Nightgowns and Slippers.

Somnambulists are guilty of a great many curious freaks, while a great many are attended with danger, and still others afford the ground for lots of fun. A lady and a gentleman in Quincy, Illinois, had been for a long time betrothed, and were only waiting for a favorable opportunity to come around, when the twain would be made one flesh, or thereabouts. The lady is a somnambulist of the "highest order," very beautiful, very romantic, and much addicted to the habit of novel reading. About a month ago the lady and her lover had spent the evening together, and had separated at an early hour, the gentleman repairing to his room some two blocks off, and was asleep, dreaming of the fair creature who would soon be his. She, in her still chamber, by her midnight lamp, pored over the precious pages of the latest new novel, investing, doubtless, the hero lover with the form and features of the man who was all in all to her, till at length

"The bad all killed and the good all pleased,
Her thirsty curiosity appeased;
She shut the dear, good book that made her weep
Puts out the light, and turns away to sleep."

But ere the "balmy messenger" has come to her pillow, imagination again wanders on the scenes so lately presented; the various actors start from their hidings anew, while her ideal heroine becomes identified with herself, and she arises. A drawer close by contains those hidden and delicate mysteries so carefully prepared for use during the honeymoon, and enrobing herself, she starts out, and carefully treading the distance that intervened between her own home and that of her lover she reaches the door, and here comes the mystery. How gained she admittance? But certain it is she did. She enters the chamber of her affianced, gently she lies down beside him, and presently not a sound is heard save the steady and even breathing that betokens sound and healthy repose.

Daylight came at last, and as all other things must have an end, so did this sweet sleep of innocence and beauty. The gentleman jumps from the bed and stares in affright, thinking he is oppressed by some horrible nightmare. He sees the pillow where two heads have lain during the night, and beholds the terrified object of his love robed in an elegant chambre de nuit, her heart palpitating with a thousand throbs of wonderment and horror. "How came I here?" at last came from her lips. The words brought the young man to his senses, and he realized his position, his deshabille, Mrs. Grundy, and squatted down on the floor by the side of the bed, his head just protruding above; an explanation followed: "What's to be done?" and with a quickness of thought he conceived how, by one grand coup de main make all right. Telling the lady to be quiet a few moments, he hastily dressed, rushed frantically to the house of the county clerk, told him the circumstances, got a license, sought a preacher, and returned in less than an hour, and they were married, the lady in her night gown, and he in slippers, pants and night shirt.

THE POWER OF IMAGINATION.—Billy Smith is a carriage-maker in the shop of Pulford & Co., in our village. Billy is a genius, as the gorgeous red and yellow stripes on Pulford's wagons show, and while counterfeiting nature one day, for his own amusement, in the rear of the shop, his mind happened to run on the subject of rotten eggs, and forthwith one of those interesting subjects appeared on the board beneath his magical brush. It was represented as broken, and was so natural that an observer might fancy that it caused a disagreeable odor. The picture remained there for some time, all who had occasion to go that way, not caring to disturb a thing so forbidding to the delicate senses of the nasal protuberance. One day Squire M—— saw it and applied his fingers to his nose. Billy saw him and explained to him that it was but paint. At first he would hardly believe but finally convinced he offered Billy ten dollars to paint a similar one on his door step. The Squire was something of a wag, and wished to see the effect produced on the ladies and gentlemen who had been invited to a party at his house that evening.

Billy received ten dollars, and promised to have the painting ready in time.

Evening arrived, and so did the ladies and gentlemen; and as each in succession passed over Billy's painting they elevated their feet and skirts and applying their perfumed handkerchiefs to their noses, wondered if the Squire was aware of the presence of that frightful thing on his step.

The party progressed, and the rotten egg was the subject of much remark. Squire M. heard and felt jolly over the success of his little practical joke. When everybody was chatting at the table after supper, and not a few of them about the "apparition" at the door, the Squire arose, and uttering a preliminary "hem!" said:

"I suppose you all saw that on my door step, didn't you?"

Everybody assented, some of the females uttered a little scream, and all of that sex fanned themselves vigorously. The Squire resumed:

"I had that placed there to illustrate the power of imagination, as I'll show you if you'll adjourn to the door."

All went.

"Now," said the squire, taking out his snowy pocket handkerchief, you "will see that this is not what you supposed it was, but merely a painting." And he pressed the handkerchief on the "illustrated" spot, then raising it suddenly to his nose, "By Jupiter!" he exclaimed, "it's a rotten egg, after all!"

Billy had taken the ten dollars and broken a bona fide rotten egg on the door-step.

AN affectionate but playful wife in Springfield, Mass., sent a note to her husband recently, written in a disguised hand, signed with a fictitious name, stating that she had often seen and admired him, and if he would inform her of a place of meeting, she would go to the spot, and they would become better acquainted. Husband answered the note at once, appointing time and place of meeting. Both parties met at the appointed time and place, the lady heavily veiled and proceeded to the rooms, where the veil was removed and a grand tableau not expected ensued. Assurance on the part of the husband that it was nothing but a joke, and that he knew all the time it was her, reconciled the wife, who is having a stylish bonnet, new velvet cloak and elegant silk dress made.

DESERTERS.—A prayer-meeting is the true thermometer of the church. A cold prayer-meeting invariably makes a cold church; it is at once the cause and the effect of a sad spiritual declension. If the place of prayer is well nigh deserted; if the few who are present in person seem to be absent in spirit; if the formal prayers that are rehearsed are without point, purpose, or unction—then the pastor of such a flock has abundadt cause for heaviness and tears. His work drags, his truth-seed decays as it is sown: his spirit faints within him. I would as soon be the pastor of Greenwood Cemetery as of a congregation who insulted me systematically by asking me to spend my life in preaching the gospel to immortal souls for whom they refuse to pray. The member of a Christian church who has made his public vow to serve his Master, and yet wilfully absents himself from the place of prayer, is guilty of a breach of his covenant. He is as rank a deserter from duty as the soldier would be who refused to stand in his place when his regiment was drawn up in line of battle on the field. Individual cowardice, when it becomes general, kills an army; so individual coldness in piety freezes out a prayer-meeting and kills a church.—Rev. T. S. Cuyler.

EVERY DAY PHILOSOPHY.—Hans Patrick C. Connor, formerly known by the nom de plume of "Beau Hackett," contributed the following to the St. Louis Home Journal:

Never insure your life for the benefit of your wife for a greater sum than ten thousand dollars. A widow with more money than that is a dangerous legacy to leave posterity.

The "game of life" is very like a game of cards. Time deals, death cuts, and everybody is waiting for the last trump.

I think men drink in crowds because they are afraid to drink by themselves. It requires a good deal of courage to stand up alone and pour a glass of whisky down your throat.

There are some inconsistencies in this world that I don't exactly understand. Everybody is anxious to go to heaven, but nobody is in a hurry about it.

If a man is without enemies I would not give ten cents for all his friends. The man who can please everybody, hasn't got sense enough to please anybody.

When an acquaintance says, "How are you?" and rushes by you without pausing for a reply, I wouldn't if I was in your place, follow him more than a mile to tell him I was well.

A convenient way of testing the affections of your intended is to marry another woman. If she don't love you, you will find it out immediately.

Do unto other men as they would like to do unto you, and they won't have enough money in two weeks to hire a shirt washed.

The song "Dear Mother I've Come Home to Die," always struck me as a happy illustration of American assurance. Our young go abroad to spend the hard earnings of the old folks, and when they are dead-broke return home to be buried at the expense of their impoverished parents.

THE PRESIDENCY.

THE principal topic of discussion among politicians now, is the question of who will be the next President. The Radicals are afraid of Gen. Grant, and will make a strong effort to nominate Chase or Wade. Though they may not succeed in the electoral College, they hope to carry enough States to throw the election into the House of Representatives, which, being overwhelmingly Radical, will insure the election of their candidate.

The more conservative of the party favor Gen. Grant's nomination in the hope that the prestige of his name will enable them to succeed, notwithstanding the odious measures of their party. They will endeavor to prove to moderate men that he is conservative, and to Radicals that he is with them, and in fact, can prove both sides satisfactorily.

The Democrats seem to be more decided on the principles which shall govern the canvass, than on the man, and in this respect differ materially from their opponents. Whether their candidate be a civilian or a military man, it is certain that he must stand on a platform the main plank of which must be opposition to the Congressional plan of enfranchising negroes and disfranchising the white population. In other words they will maintain the right of each State to regulate the question of suffrage for itself.

Probably Gen. Hancock would be the best candidate, if a military man is to be taken. He is a Pennsylvanian, of a good old stock, and has a magnificent record as a fighting man. In addition to that, since he has assumed command of the Fifth Military District, he has displayed civil abilities of the highest order, and like Gen. Jackson, though armed with ordinary power, has shown the greatest respect to civil authority. His nomination would be popular, safe, and there is no question he would be elected against anybody who runs on a negro suffrage platform.

JOHN M'ANALL has been appointed Post Master at Berwick, in place of Dr. E. G. Horne resigned. This came like a bombshell in the copperhead camp. It may teach a few uneasy and over sanguine gentlemen the wisdom of postponing the counting their chickens until they are all hatched!—Republican.

We imagine we see Palemon, surrounded by a circle of special friends, reading a telegram from Ulysses Mercure, making the above announcement. Here, at least, was a crumb of comfort; Mercur had got one Post Office fixed; one of his friends, had accepted a position in the "bread and butter brigade," notwithstanding the curses heaped upon it by the said Palemon. The chicken was hatched, as above stated, the bail bonds prepared, and there was joy in the camp of the Radicals.

Palemon forgot, however, that he was dealing with men used to "bomb-shells," and that with them it is a common trick, to pick up the shell and throw it back into the enemy's camp before it explodes. We have repeated this interesting experiment, (the fuse having been cut too long,) and it has proved a regular Columbiad, killing Mr. McAnall severely, and mortally wounding Capt. Mercur, Corporal John, and a host of privates. The bungling artillerists have been "hoist with their own petard," and should hereafter remember that "'tis dangerous for children to play with edged tools."

Mr. Sanders, the new appointee, we are glad to say is a thorough gentleman, perfectly competent to fulfill the duties of the office, and whose appointment will give satisfaction to the entire body of the community.

TRY THIS PLAN.—Young man, another year has passed away, and yet, you have no money left of all your year's labor. Why is it—you don't know—well we do, and we will tell you plainly why you are without money to-day. You have smoked and given away since last New Year's day about 300 cigars, each cigar cost you five cents. You have used each week about one plug of ten cent tobacco. You have taken about 300 drinks of old rye whisky at ten cents each. You have taken about 40 plates of oysters when you were not needing them, and paid 25 cts. for each. Now let us see what all this amounts to:

300 cigars at 5 cents each, cost	$15.00
52 plugs of tobacco at 10 cents, cost	5.20
300 drinks at 10 cents each, cost	30.00
40 plates of oysters at 25 cents cost	10.00

This only amounts to sixty dollars, but young man, you know that we have not made our calculation half as high as you would have to make it if put on oath—and if so, you have foolishly thrown away $120 since last New Year's day. If you do this during a life time of fifty years, you will lose $6,000, or if interest is counted as it should be, you will be $15,000 out of pocket.

GENERAL POPE TO BE RELIEVED.—It is currently reported that the President has decided to relieve General Pope of the command of the Third Military District, embracing the State s of Georgia, Alabama, and Florida. General Meade, who is named as his successor, was at the White House Tuesday and had a long interview with the Executive. It is said that grave charges have been made against Pope, and his recent letter, showing the extreme partisan character of his administration of affairs, is sufficient of itself to call for some interposition on the part of the President, and it is to be hoped that it will be no longer delayed.

RADICAL RECONSTRUCTION—WHAT IT COSTS.—It will be perceived by reference to Congressional reports, that the House was engaged on a bill appropriating nearly seven hundred thousand dollars to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the current fiscal year to carry out the infamous Africanizing scheme of the Radical party, called "Reconstruction" of the Southern States. If the people are curious to know why they are taxed so high and where the public money goes, they have only to observe the character of the appropriation bill of the present Radical Congress.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

WE print on the outside of our paper this week the Message of the President of the United States in reference to General Hancock, commanding one of the Southern Military Districts. We call particular attention to it as being somewhat new, and touching upon questions which he has not in that form previously discussed.

In his annual message sent to Congress at the opening of the Session there was nothing particularly new, and therefore we thought it unnecessary to give it a place in our columns. It was simply a restatement of former arguments against the Congressional plan of reconstruction, which, in the shape of veto messages, had already been fully laid before our readers. Indeed, those vetoes were more forcibly and pointedly written than the official annual message; and as nothing new on the topic was suggested by him, newer and more important matter was chosen for our readers.

NO THOROUGHFARE, the admirable Christmas story by Charles Dickens and Wilkie Collins, appeared simultaneously with its publication in London in the pages of Every Saturday, advance sheets having been purchased by Ticknor & Fields in order to afford this pleasant treat to American readers. SPECIAL NOTICES.

DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY.

Where this article is known it is a word of supererogation to say one word in its favor, so well is it established as an unfailing remedy for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Asthma, diseases of the throat, chest, and lungs, as well as that most dreaded of all diseases, Consumption, which high medical authority has pronounced to be an incurable disease. Those who have used this remedy know its value; those who have not have but to make a single trial to be satisfied that this is THE REMEDY.

The Rev. Jacob Sechler, well known and much respected among the German population of this country, writes as follows:

HANOVER, Pa., Feb. 18, 1859.

Messrs. S. W. FOWLE & SON, Boston:

DEAR SIRS—Having realized in my family important benefits from the use of your valuable preparation—WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY—it affords me pleasure to recommend it to the public. Some eight years ago one of my daughters seemed to be in a decline, and little hopes for her recovery were entertained. I then procured a bottle of your excellent Balsam, and before she had taken the whole of it there was a great improvement in her health. I have, in my individual case, made frequent use of your valuable medicine, and have always been benefited by it. I would, however, caution the public against imposition, because there is a good deal of spurious Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry afloat through the country. JACOB SECHLER.

None genuine unless signed "I. BUTTS" on the wrapper.

Some Folks Can't Sleep Nights.

Very many suffer from nervous debility, others from weakness of the stomach and inability to digest their food; some have creeping sensations along the nerve fibres, or pain in the back, with aching and weary throbbing of the limbs. Thousands of ladies suffer through long years from what are called FEMALE COMPLAINTS, caused by the relaxation of tissues and ligaments [illegible]. Thousands of business men, overworked in mind and body, use up the nervous fluid and become unfit for duty or the enjoyments of life. Excess in youth, and the terrible effects of fever and ague, involve shattered constitutions and the failure of the general functions of health. To sufferers from all these causes,

DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR

offers an invaluable boon—a natural and efficient renewal of lost powers. No person, man or woman, suffering from any cause, can afford to neglect this remedy. The Nervine will be found to possess an equalizing and purifying principle. It has affinity for the Nervous Fluid, and supplies [illegible]. Like wholesome food it goes into the stomach, it [illegible] digestion, invigorating in its [illegible] the digestive organs, and producing a unknown to any other preparation. It contains no opium or narcotic, and so far from producing constipation it will be found an efficient cure for constipation, and has obtained a wide renown for this peculiarity.

CALMNESS AND TRANQUILLITY

WHAT PEOPLE SAY.

"Dear Doctor: The bottle of medicine prescribed by you I obtained, and will say that Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator is all that it claims to be. I feel like a new man; I sleep well; have good appetite; and feel stronger than I have for many years past." (Contributed by Dr. H. A. Tucker, 259 Clinton st., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"I have used the Nervine, and find myself much benefited by it, particularly in the increase of strength and cure of those trembling sensations. My nervousness seems to be entirely cured." [illegible]

"The medicine you ordered (Dodd's Nervine) we have taken three bottles of. It is a great thing. My wife says she had rather have one bottle of it than forty doctors. She is certainly better. Lemuel(?) cured; don't feel the dragging down so much; bowels move easier, and is in a better nervous condition every way."

G. H. Martin, Cumberland House, Long Branch, N. J., states that Dodd's Nervine has cured him of chronic weakness of the stomach, dizziness and sick headache, and greatly strengthened his whole system.

David Harshorn, 330 State st., Brooklyn, cured of chronic rheumatism and nervous debility.

John Hurnal, Brooklyn, N.Y. says: "To regulate the bowels without producing cathartic effect, quiet the nerves, and tone up the system, I have never used anything that equalled Dodd's Nervine."

W. F. Doane, Esq., Eastford, Conn.: "My wife has suffered for seventeen years with extreme nervous debility and mental prostration. She was induced by a friend to try Dr. J. W. Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator, and by its use is now restored to perfect health."

Dr. C. C. York, Charlestown, Mass.: "In cases of great nervous debility, not confined by any means to the female organization more common than among men, I employ Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator with the happiest effect. It exceeds in tonic power anything that I know, while its action upon the bowels is all that can be desired."

Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator is employed in the Massachusetts Hospital for the Insane at Taunton.

GROVER & BAKER'S

SEWING MACHINES,

Were awarded the Highest Premiums at the State Fairs of

New York,	Kentucky,	Vermont,
Tennessee,	New Jersey	Missouri,
Pennsylvania,	Alabama,	Ohio,
Mississippi,	Indiana,	Virginia,
Michigan,	North Carolina,	Wisconsin,
California,	Iowa,	Oregon,

AT THE FAIRS OF THE American Institute, Franklin Institute, Maryland Institute, Mass. Mechanics' Association, Penn. Mechanics' Institute, St. Louis Agricultural and Mechanics' Association,

And at numerous Institutes and County Fairs including all the Fairs at which they were exhibited the past three years. First Prizes have also been awarded these Machines at the exhibitions of

LONDON, PARIS, DUBLIN, LINZ,

Besancon, Bayonne, St. Dizier, Chalons, and they have been furnished, by special command, to the Empress of France, Empress of Austria, Empress of Russia, Empress of Brazil, Queen of Spain, and Queen of Bavaria.

THE GROVER & BAKER

ELASTIC-STITCH

are superior to all others for the following reasons:—

1. They sew with two threads direct from the spools, and requiring no rewinding.

2. They are more easily understood and used, and less liable to derangement than other machines.

3. They are capable of executing perfectly, without change of adjustment, a much greater variety of work than other machines.

4. The stitch made by these machines is much more firm, elastic, and durable, especially upon articles which require to be washed and ironed than any other stitch.

5. This stitch, owing to the manner in which the under thread is inwrought, is much the most plump and beautiful in use, and retains this plumpness and beauty even upon articles frequently washed and ironed until they are worn out.

6. The structure of the seam is such that, though it be cut or broken at intervals of only a few stitches, it will neither open, run, nor ravel, but remain firm and durable.

7. Unlike other machines, these fasten both ends of the seam by their own operation.

8. With these machines, while silk is used upon the right or face side of the seam, cotton may be used upon the other side without lessening the strength or durability of the seam. This can be done on no other machine, and is a great saving upon all articles stitched or made up with silk.

9. These machines, in addition to their superior merits as instruments for sewing, by a change of adjustment, easily learned and practised, execute the most beautiful and permanent embroidery and ornamental work.

In addition to their family machines they have also the

IMPROVED DOUBLE LOCK

STITCH MACHINES,

making a stitch alike on both sides. This Company make both the Lock and Double stitch Machines, so that persons having a preference can select such as they like best, and if not suited can exchange for the other, thus giving the public the advantage of this arrangement. They also make the newly invented

NO. 1 LOCK STITCH MACHINES

an advance upon all machines heretofore known for sewing with the Lock-Stitch. It is of great power and strength, especially adapted for tailors, shoemakers, harness-makers, carriage-trimmers and for all descriptions of work to which the lock-stitch is applicable. It works with equal facility silk, cotton, or linen thread, and will sew the finest muslin as well as the thickest leather. Price $90; with Hemmers, $95. Their No. 9 is containing many improvements, adapted for tailoring, vest-making, light shoemaking, as well as for family sewing. Large numbers of these machines are in use, and they give universal satisfaction. None who have seen this machine will willingly use the noisy and cumbrous lock-stitch machines heretofore in general use. Price $55; with Hemmers, $60.

These machines of every description can be had at the agent's office in Bloomsburg, at precisely the manufacturer's prices, to which the attention of the public is especially invited.

Form of Proposal, Guarantee, and Certificate.

PROPOSAL.

The undersigned ——, whose post office address is ——, county of ——, State of ——, proposes to convey the mails of the United States, from July 1, 1868, to June 30, 1872, on route No. ——, between —— and —— under the advertisement of the Postmaster General, dated October 31, 1867, with "celerity, certainty, and security," for the annual sum of —— dollars.

This proposal is made with full knowledge of the distance of the route, the weight of the mail to be carried, and all other particulars in reference to the route and service, and also after careful examination of the laws and instructions attached to the advertisement.

Dated (Signed.)

GUARANTEE.

The undersigned, residing at ——, State of ——, undertake that, if the foregoing bid for carrying the mail on route No. —— be accepted by the Postmaster General, the bidder shall, prior to the 1st day of July, 1868, enter into the required obligation or contract to perform the service proposed, with good and sufficient sureties.

This we do, understanding distinctly the obligations and liabilities assumed by guarantors under the 27th section of the act of Congress of July 2, 1836.

Dated (Signed by two guarantors.)

CERTIFICATE.

The undersigned, postmaster at ——, State of ——, certifies, UNDER HIS OATH OF OFFICE, that he is acquainted with the above guarantors, and knows them to be men of property, and able to make good their guarantee.

Dated (Signed.)

INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS AND POSTMASTERS;

CONTAINING ALSO CONDITIONS TO BE INCORPORATED IN THE CONTRACTS TO THE EXTENT THE DEPARTMENT MAY DEEM PROPER.

1. Seven minutes are allowed to each intermediate office, when not otherwise specified, for assorting the mails; but on railroad and steamboat routes there is to be no more delay than is sufficient for an exchange of the mail pouches.

2. On railroad and steamboat lines, and other routes where the mode of conveyance admits of it, the special agents of the Post Office Department, also post office blanks, mail bags, locks and keys, are to be conveyed without extra charge.

3. On railroad and steamboat lines the route agents of the Department, also the British and Canada mails, when offered, and the agents accompanying them, are to be conveyed without charge; and for the use of the United States agents a commodious car, or part of a car, properly lighted, warmed, and furnished, and adapted to the convenient separation and due security of the mails, is to be provided by the contractor, under the direction of the Department.

Railroad and steamboat companies are required to take the mail from and deliver it into the post offices at the beginning and end of their routes, and to and from all offices not more than eighty rods from a station or landing. Proposals may be submitted by the companies for the performance of all other side service—that is, for offices over eighty rods from a station or landing.

There will be "way bills" prepared by postmasters, or other agents of the Department, to accompany the mails conveyed on railroads and steamers, specifying the number and destination of the several bags. On other principal routes, likewise, receipts will be required and way bills forwarded; the latter to be examined by the several postmasters, to insure regularity in the delivery of mails.

4. No pay will be made for trips not performed; and for each of such omissions, not satisfactorily explained, three times the pay of the trip will be deducted. For arrivals so far behind time as to break connexion with depending mails, and not sufficiently excused, one-fourth of the compensation for the trip is subject to forfeiture. For repeated delinquencies of the kind herein specified, enlarged penalties, proportioned to the nature thereof, and the importance of the mail, may be made.

5. For leaving behind or throwing off the mails, or any portion of them, for the admission of passengers, or for being concerned in setting up or running an express conveying intelligence in advance of the mail, a quarter's pay may be deducted.

6. Fines will be imposed, unless the delinquency be promptly and satisfactorily explained by certificates of postmasters or the affidavits of other credible persons, for failing to arrive in contract time; for neglecting to take the mail from, or deliver it into, a post office; for suffering it to be wet, injured, destoyed, robbed, or lost; and for refusing, after demand, to convey the mail as frequently as the contractor runs, or is concerned in running, a coach, car, or steamboat on a route.

7. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for repeated failures to run agreeably to contract; for violating the post office laws, or disobeying the instructions of the Department; for refusing to discharge a carrier when required by the Department to do so; for running an express as aforesaid; or for transporting persons or packages conveying mailable matter out of the mail.

8. The Postmaster General may order an increase of service on a route by allowing therefor a pro rata increase on the contract pay. He may change schedules of departures and arrivals in all cases, and particularly to make them conform to connexions with railroads, without increase of pay, provided the running time be not abridged. He may also order an increase of speed, allowing, within the restrictions of the law, a pro rata increase of pay for the additional stock or carriers, if any. The contractor may, however, in the case of increase of speed, relinquish the contract by giving prompt notice to the Department that he prefers doing so to carrying the order into effect. The Postmaster General may also discontinue or curtail the service, in whole or in part, in order to place on the route a greater degree of service, or whenever the public interests, in his judgment, shall require such discontinuance or curtailment for any other cause; he allowing as full indemnity to contractor one month's extra pay on the amount of service dispensed with, and a pro rata compensation for the amount of service retained and continued.

9. Payments will be made by collections from or drafts on postmasters, or otherwise, after the expiration of each quarter—say in November, February, May, and August.

10. The distances are given according to the best information; but no increased pay will be allowed should they be greater than advertised, if the points to be supplied are correctly stated. Bidders must inform themselves on this point, and also in reference to the weight of the mail, the condition of roads, hills, streams, &c., and all toll bridges, ferries, or obstructions of any kind by which expense may be incurred. No claim for additional pay, based on such ground, can be considered; nor for alleged mistakes or misapprehension as to the degree of service; nor for bridges destroyed, ferries discontinued, or other obstructions increasing distance, occurring during the contract term. Offices established after this advertisement is issued, and also during the contract term, are to be visited without extra pay, if the distance be not increased.

11. Bidders are cautioned to mail their proposals in time to reach the Department by the day and hour named, (3 p. m., March 4, 1868,) for bids received after that time will not be considered in competition with a bid of reasonable amount received in time. Neither can bids be considered which are without the guarantee required by law and a certificate of the sufficiency of such a guarantee.

12. Bidders should first propose for service strictly according to the advertisement, and then, if they desire, separately for different service; and if the regular bid be the lowest offered for the advertised service, the other propositions may be considered.

13. There should be but one route bid for in a proposal. Consolidated or combination bids ("proposing one sum for two or more routes") are forbidden by law, and cannot be considered.

14. The route, the service, the yearly pay, the name and residence of the bidder, (that is, his usual post office address,) and the name of each member of a firm, where a company offers, should be distinctly stated.

15. Bidders are requested to use, as far as practicable, the printed proposals furnished by the Department, to write out in full the sum of their bids, and to retain copies of them.

Altered bids should not be submitted; nor should bids once submitted be withdrawn. No withdrawal of a bidder or guarantor will be allowed unless the withdrawal is dated and received before the last day for receiving proposals.

Each bid must be guaranteed by two responsible persons. The bid and guarantee should be signed plainly with the full name of each person.

The department reserves the right to reject any bid which may be deemed extravagant, and also to disregard the bids of failing contractors and bidders.

16. The bid should be sealed, superscribed "Mail Proposals, State of Pennsylvania," addressed "Second Assistant Postmaster General, Contract Office," and sent by mail, not by or to an agent; and postmasters will not enclose proposals (or letters of any kind) in their quarterly returns.

17. The contracts are to be executed and returned to the Department by or before the 1st day of July, 1868; but the service must be begun on that day or on the mail day next after it, whether the contracts be executed or not.

Transfers of contracts, or of interest in contracts, are forbidden by law, and consequently cannot be allowed. Bidders will therefore take notice that they will be expected to perform the service accepted to them through the whole term of the contract.

18. Postmasters at offices on or near railroads, but more than eighty rods from a station, will, immediately after the 4th of March next, report their exact distance from the nearest station and how they are otherwise supplied with the mail, to enable the Postmaster General to direct a mail-messenger supply from the 1st of July next.

19. Section eighteen of an act of Congress approved March 3, 1845, provides that contracts for the transportation of the mail shall be let, "in every case, to the lowest bidder tendering sufficient guarantees for faithful performance, without other reference to the mode of such transportation than may be necessary to provide for the due celerity, certainty, and security of such transportation." Under this law bids that propose to transport the mails with "celerity, certainty, and security," having been decided to be the only legal bids, are construed as providing for the entire mail, however large, and whatever may be the mode of conveyance necessary to insure its "celerity, certainty and security," and have the preference over all others, and no others are considered.

20. A modification of a bid in any of its essential terms is tantamount to a new bid, and cannot be received, so as to interfere with regular competition, after the last hour set for receiving bids, making a new bid, with guarantee and certificate is the only way to modify a previous bid.

21. Postmasters are to be careful not to certify the sufficiency of guarantors or sureties without knowing that they are persons of sufficient responsibility; a disregard of this instruction by postmasters is a violation of their oath of office, subjecting them to immediate removal. All bidders, guarantors, and sureties are distinctly notified that on a failure to enter into or perform the contracts for the service proposed for in the accepted bids, their legal liabilities will be enforced against them.

22. Present contractors, and persons known at the Department, must, equally with others, procure guarantors and certificates of their sufficiency substantially in the forms above prescribed. The certificate of sufficiency must be signed by a postmaster, or by a judge of a court of record. No other will be admitted.

THE AMERICAN HAY KNIFE AND FORK.—We the undersigned citizens of Columbia County witnessed the trial of hay forks on the farm of Mr. Pursel, in Hemlock Township, on Monday, May 7, 1866, between the American Hay Knife and Fork manufactured by SLIFER, WALLS, SHRINER & Co., of Lewisburg, Pa., and the Rundel's Patent Hay Hook. The American Fork lifted more hay in one draught than the Rundel in three. We are satisfied it will take as much hay into the mow as two good horses can draw. We also saw it cutting hay, and think it cannot be beat as a hay knife, and cheerfully recommend it as the best hay fork and knife we have ever seen.

The Columbian.

BLOOMSBURG, FRIDAY, DEC. 27, 1867.

HON. C. R. BUCKALEW arrived at home last Saturday, and appears to be in his usual good health.

THIS week the advertisement of the Post Office routes in this State will expire, and we can begin the year with new and more important matter.

A STRING BAND is being organized by the youths of our town. We know the fact, because they are practicing in a room about ten feet from our sanctum.

A LARGE quantity of brick for the Court House extension has already been hauled. This commendable energy on the part of the Commissioners is to be approved.

WE are requested to announce that on next Sabbath morning at half past ten o'clock Rev. G. M. Spratt of Lewisburg Pa. will preach in the Baptist Church at this place.

ACCORDING to ancient custom our carrier will call on our patrons with his address on New Year's day. As he has served them faithfully through rain and shine, we trust he will meet with a generous reception.

WE have just learned that the Iron Companies in this town propose to reduce the wages of their employees fifteen cents on a dollar, on and after the 1st of January. The Danville companies we understand, adopted this policy some time ago.

WE are informed that at the recent sale of the Real Estate of Mrs. Rebecca Vanderslice, deceased, T. J. Vanderslice, Esq., bought the Hemlock property for about $11,000, and the lot of ground and stone house on Main Street was sold to Mrs. Armstrong for $3,000

GEN. WILLIAM A. PETRIKIN, of Muncy, Lycoming county, Penna., died at that place on last Friday, Dec. 20th. He was a leading and active politician, a man of great integrity and force of character, pronounced in his views, but highly esteemed and respected even by his opponents.

SUBSCRIBERS to THE COLUMBIAN should remember that they get fifty-two numbers for a year; that it is the largest, handsomest and best paper in the county; and that it comes at the same price as the others. We don't charge our subscribers for fifty-two papers, and give them fifty.

A NUMBER of our cotemporaries have determined to issue no paper during the holidays. We would save about $100, by pursuing the same course, but believe the public, and those advertising, are as much entitled to a paper then as ever. We therefore send the COLUMBIAN as usual to our readers, feeling assured that they will appreciate it all the more for being a "holiday" sheet.

FOR some unexplained reason our Roaringcreek package wandered several days through the mails before reaching its destination, and portions of the Espy package reached us Tuesday, with the papers soiled, the supplements taken out, and other evidences of having been tampered with. We are now investigating this matter, and propose to expose the guilty party if we can find him.

WE are informed that the friends of Dr. J. B. M'Kelvy presented him, as a Christmas present, with a splendid surgical work, accompanied with the following note:

BLOOMSBURG, DEC. 25, 1867.
DR. J. B. M'KELVY—Sir: In appreciation of your skill as a physician, and in testimony of our personal regard, we beg you to accept the accompanying book of Anatomical Plates.
With great respect, Yours &c.

WE were surprised and pained to hear of the sudden death of Leonard Stoneman, which occured on the 19th inst., at Espy. Mr. Stoneman was eating supper and was choked by a piece of meat, causing strangulation and death in a few moments. He was well known in this town and at the time of his death held the office of Constable of the township. He was buried with military honors on last Sunday morning.

AFTER all, an editor's life has its amenities. While very often his labors are unappreciated, yet there are always some among his readers who are willing to encourage by generous acts and kind words. We are under especial obligations to Joseph Lilley, Esq., Wm. Krickbaum, our efficient County Clerk, and Jeff. Vanderslice, for "Christmas" Turkeys. We doubt not their sleep will be sweeter, their lives happier, and their future more blissful for having "remembered the Editor."

ON last Monday Eve. a number of our citizens had an informal meeting on the subject of organizing a Cooperative Industrial Association in this town. The idea was favorably received, Committee appointed to draft a Constitution and By-Laws, and to solicit subscriptions. Over $1200, was subscribed on the spot.

The object is to form an Association which will establish a store to sell at reasonable profits and divide the profits among the Stockholders. The plan has been extensively adopted in England and in our large Cities, and so far has proved successful. If thoroughly organized, and honestly managed we have no doubt of the success of the institution.

A MOST distressing accident occurred at Espy on Tuesday morning last. Two young men by the name of Billinger and Neyhart were driving a team of mules attached to a sled down the road leading from Light Street, and attempted to cross the railroad track, as the train from Bloomsburg was approaching. The mules crossed in safety, but the sled was struck by the locomotive, throwing out both the occupants. Billinger was caught by the cowcatcher and managed to cling to it, escaping with a severe gash in his scalp and a cut over his eye. Neyhardt was frightfully mangled, having one leg nearly torn off, and the other badly crushed, losing half of the foot and having the skin stripped off from below the knee. The shock to his system was so great th t it was deemed inadvisable to perform amputation. He lingered until night when death put an end to his sufferings.

THE GREAT

ZINGARI BITTERS

The component parts of this remarkable preparation were first discovered, compounded and distributed, some twenty years ago, by Dr. Cuzorsus, the celebrated Egyptian Physician. Thousands of his suffering countrymen were restored to health, as well as great numbers of the inhabitants of Nubia and Abyssinia, and of the countries bordering upon the Southern coast of the Mediterranean Sea.

Indeed, the fame of the ZINGARI BITTERS soon spread over Europe, and was adopted by the principal Physicians in charge of the hospitals of the old world, in which it is still used with preeminent success The Viceroy of Egypt placed the name of DR. CUZORSUS upon the "Roll of Nobles," and presented to him a Medal bearing the following inscription: "DR. CUZORSUS, the Public Benefactor." This Bitters is now offered to the public of America with the full assurance that it will be found, upon a fair trial, to act as a specific for the cure of Cholera, Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Cholera Morbus, Fever and Ague, Yellow Fever, Rheumatism, Typhoid Fever, Dyspepsia, Colic, Bronchitis, Consumption, Flatulency, Diseases of the Kidneys, Nervous Debility, and Female Complaints.

Remarkable cures of the above diseases have been effected by its use, as numerous certificates, many from regular physicians, fully attest; and it is destined to supersede any preparation extant. As an agreeable Tonic, and an

INVIGORATING BEVERAGE,
IT HAS NO EQUAL.

THUS THE ZINGARI BITTERS
HAS SOUL
AS WELL AS BODY,
AND AS A
HAS NO SUPERIOR.

A FEW WORDS TO LADIES.—The use of the ZINGARI BITTERS will give to you that soft, semi-transparent complexion which the God of nature (designing woman to be the loveliest of his works) fully intended that you should have—for it is nature's own powder and paint combined. By purifying the blood, stimulating the pigmentary cells of the dermis, and imparting health and life throughout the entire system, it especially gives that smooth clearness and beauty to the complexion so much to be desired—removing all roughness, blotches, freckles, pimples, and that yellow, sickly look so common in our day; and what is even better than this, it cures every species of female irregularities and disease

THE KEYSTONE CLOVER SEED STRIPPER.

PATENTED OCTOBER 2, 1866.

This simple, though effective machine is admitted by all scientific observers to be the most direct device for gathering clover seed yet discovered.

A mere glance at it is sufficient to convince the most obtuse mind of its practical utility.

It strips the clover head from the stalk leaving the straw standing upon the ground. It is easily drawn by one horse, and requires but one man or boy to work it.

It is compact, simple in structure, and not liable to get out of order, and can be cheaply got up.

The great advantage in this machine is, we have the seed gathered in the chaff, ready for the clover mill or huller, besides saving the great length of time and labor of mowing, handling and threshing it from the straw. It will also pay every farmer to gather his seed with this machine, on account of the saving of the seed which is lost in the old way of gathering it.

Extraordinary inducements offered to energetic men who wish to purchase State or county Rights
